Screen Shot of TeamsWin.net

From TeamsWin.net there are 3 ways to get to World History and Geography:

1. Strategic Thinking Example,
2. Blogs
3. Deeds of the Lord

However, I am looking for others to build nice websites that connect to my content. World History and Geography Content for example.

How to handle Google Earth

- Download free app or Google Earth program from Google: https://www.google.com/earth/about/versions/ for example.
- So, you can bring a Google Earth File (.kmz) into your Google Earth Program or app, search for file association for your computer or phone and follow directions.
- You probably already have a pdf file reader; if not, search for a free Adobe PDF Reader and download. Adobe, because some readers do not handle links.
- Plus, If you can’t see something in a list just hover over it and your browser will show you the whole file name. Then, read back from the end of the name.

Blogs

My TeamsWin Blogs:

My Faith Measurement Blog for strategic views of Faith.
My Ski Racing Blog for strategic views of Skiing, and Ski Racing.
For strategic views of Fastpitch Softball, and Baseball see my Fastpitch Blog.
My Hiking Blog for strategic views of Day Hiking in Boundary County.
My Bible Strategy Blog for strategic views of the Bible.
My World Geography and History Blog for strategic views of the Saints.
For strategic views of Business Science see my Power Measurement blog.

They are all examples of my calling: Power Measurement AKA Faith Measurement.

Teamswin: Like making war on a map, strategies use relationships to define things for understanding. Because we were uniquely designed for a special purpose, teams are someone helping someone else with the help of others. So, team understanding includes defining the team and supporting teams strategically. Every person has a unique gift to give, a special place in the Body of Christ. But, besides our special gifting, we all have weaknesses. Teams win when we help each other to expose those very special strengths. Teams win when we understand all the team roles, and design them to hide those weaknesses.

The World Geography and History Blog description includes the Bible Strategy Blog, or the 50 People and 50 Places that are in more than one book of the Bible.

Now that I have everything in a relational database, I can look at the stories from an unlimited number of views.

The true understanding of scripture comes from both seeing how the Saints lived it, and then living it.

Because each story has over 100 datapoints. there are currently over 100 of these queries, which can be combined for interesting relationships. So more to come.

Bible Strategy Introduction

My Bible Strategy Blog

My Bible Strategy Blog

The purpose of this document is to define Bible Strategy by listing the Bible Strategy Documents. This blog will give an overview of Bible Strategy from which you can drill down to those documents.

Bible Strategy Introduction

Strategy has been described as making war on a map. This Bible Strategy will both help people enjoy reading the Bible and introduce many to strategic thinking. TeamsWin products and services are tools for strategic thinking. To build this Bible Model, I used our business and data modeling techniques; and, I built this Bible Model for the same reason we build business models, for understanding. The most important step in strategic thinking: understanding. Understanding comes before goals and objectives. Goals and objectives are meaningless without a common understanding defining them. I believe it is impossible to enjoy reading the Bible without a common understanding of the names one encounters. Those names and their relationships define the meaning of the Bible. In other words, Bible Strategy defines the meaning of the Bible. Understanding comes from definitions.

Strategic Time Periods – The 13 Dots of History

The Bible is written about people and their events in the time periods they lived. By the way; because it takes time to show cause and effect, all original history is written about time periods, not dates. The Bible is written this way also. This time line lists those people and their time periods in relation to the thirteen dots of time represented in the Bible. Each dot represents 500 years and the first letter of each name is placed on the time of that person's birth. Some people that had important things to do lived a long time and those long lives are represented as long dark lines, or shaded areas as you drill down through those names to their individual stories. These people are important because their lives are discussed in many books of the Bible. There are about 50 people like this. Ten of these people highlight the 13 Dots of History and the other 40 are people they knew. This is true for all the people who lived near a dot, and I believe the only exceptions are Judges.

Church History Blog

My Church History Blog

My Church History Blog for Deeds of the Lord, History and Geography

The purpose of this document is to define World Geography and History using Church History Documents, Wikipedia and Google Earth. Since I am only connecting all the parts and have not added anything, what you are seeing is Geographical View of History based on the History of the Saints of the Church. I have also for each of the stories associated them with their rulers, and therefore I have associated the rulers with the saints of their time and location. With this location history, notice how God's Work moves around the World over time. Every location has its time for the Deeds of God. Because the Saints went to all the crossroads and river intersections of the world, Church History is also a World Geography and World History referencing the rivers, mountain ranges, continental divides, seaports, and other geographical elements of our Earth. Church History Documents come in the form of stories of the Saints of the Church found on Eastern and Western Church websites. From these stories we understand it was always very important to Christians that the Deeds of the Lord be documented. We also understand that God has designed these stories so that none of them stand alone. They connect with each other and with important events of World History documented outside the Church by the rulers.

Including: Divides, Rivers, Trails, and Routes of the World

Besides the stories of the saints, this data can be used to check out all the great rivers of the world, ski areas, the blue lines of people movement like the Oregon Trail, California Trail, Wilderness Trail, Trans-Siberian Highway, Volga Trade Route, Rivers of the Fertile Crescent, Silk Route to the Far East, Amber Road, and many more, all part of the Stories of the Saints. To see all these things at once, click on the Saint's Locations worldwide by location link.

Saints: Key to World History and World Geography

The purpose of this work is to show that these stories of the saints are the key to World History. Because history itself is God's story, by linking these stories to their respective rulers, one can see that God controls all authority and therefore his story. His story always begins with prophecy. In other words, he sets up the accounts or buckets that collect his story. His buckets always come true, and he foils all other buckets. You will see this fact, as you see the deeds of God in his stories.

Saint Stories touch Everyone, Each Group has had its time

The lives of those saints touch everyone in the World. Like business, location is the key to

13 Dots of History

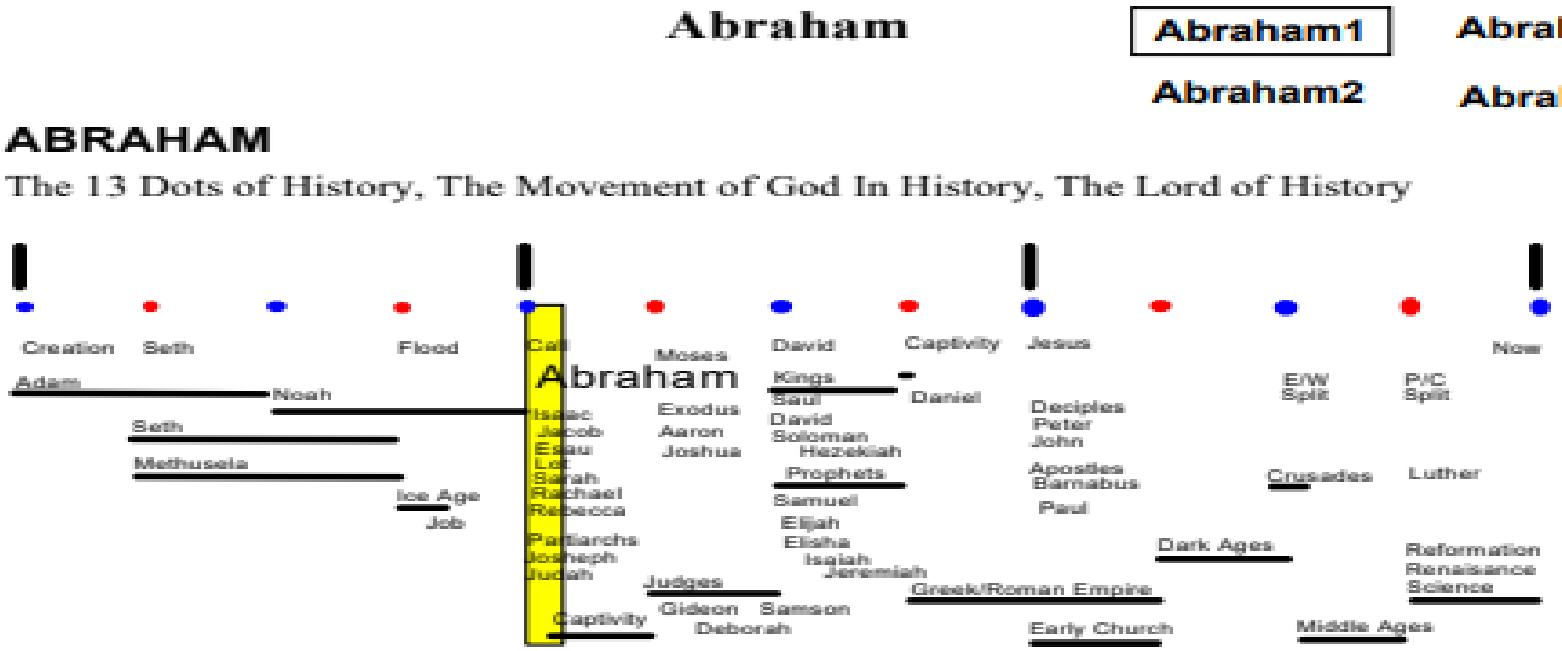

Adam, created complete, passed it on

Besides naming all the animals, Adam taught these 8 people what he knew when he was created complete. Here you see he lived with each of them for at least 300 years.

Thanks to Indiana Jones, his friends, and the Nazis: In the 20th Century we discovered Adam knew how to fly and make aluminum with electricity.

Abraham, lived with Noah and his Sons

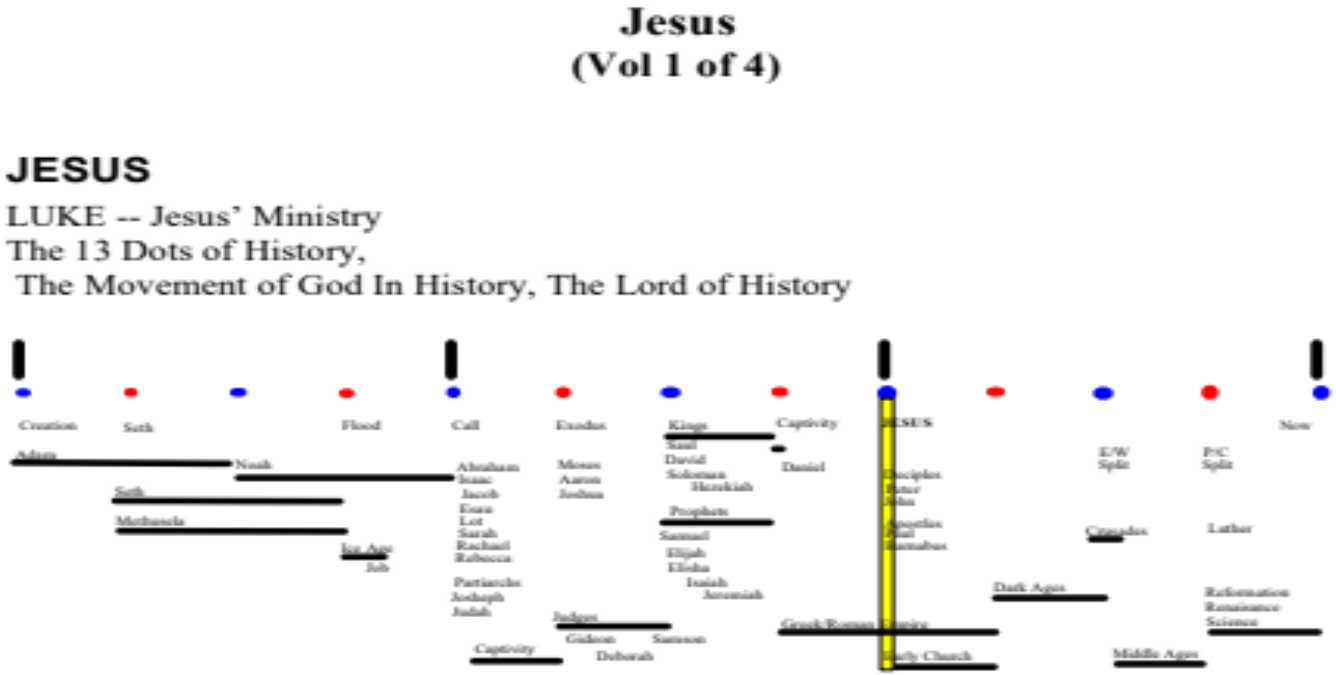

Here you see Abraham's life begins when Noah's ends.

Here you see that of the 50 people that recur throughout the Bible, many are associates of Abraham.

On the website you will be able to drill down to Abraham 2-4.

Jesus

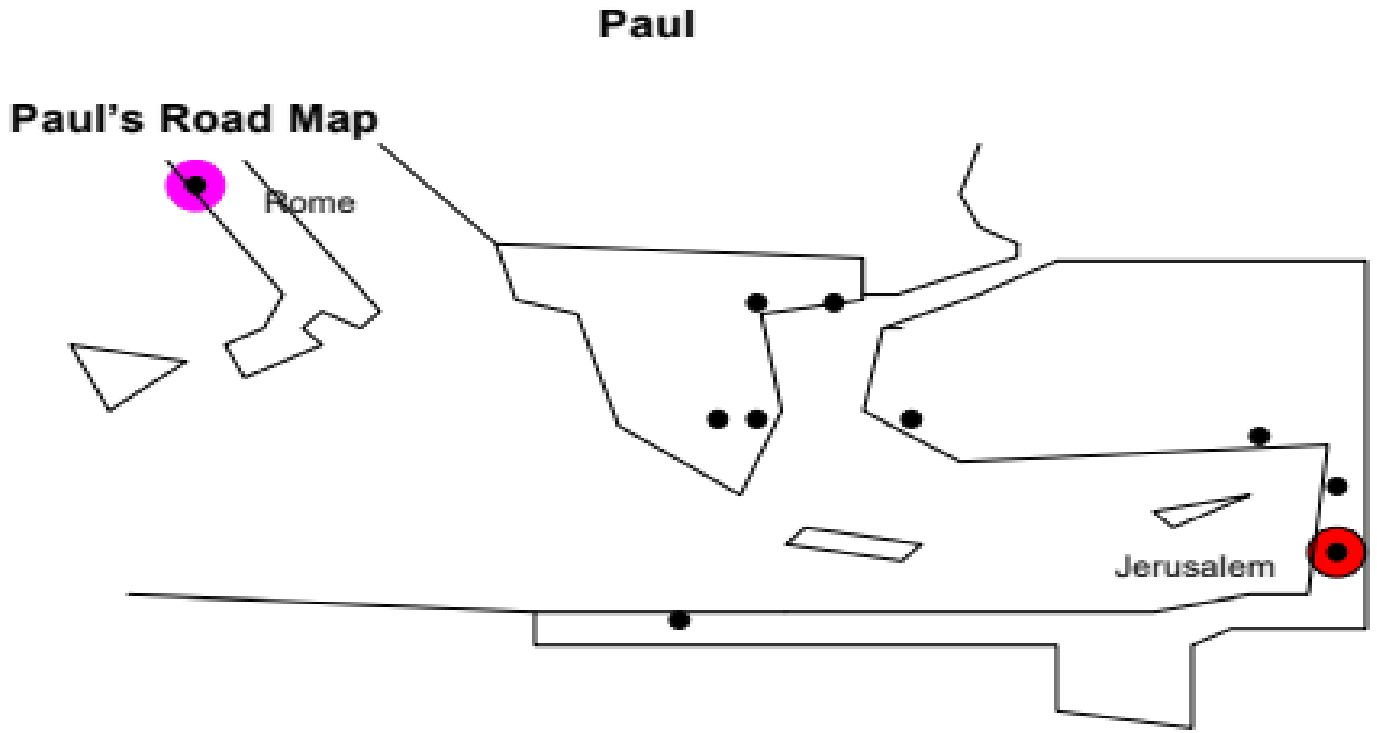

After his death, The Holy Spirit through "The Apostles" showed us Jesus is the point of the Bible.

Here we see how Jesus is one of the 10 people around which the story line of the Bible is based.

From each of these 10 people we can drill down to their historical stories with abstracts of the Geography.

Like Sunday School, the stories of these 10 people and the 40 people they knew should come before attempting reading the Bible.

Paul

This is an example of the geography abstracts used to see the 50 locations that recur in the Bible.

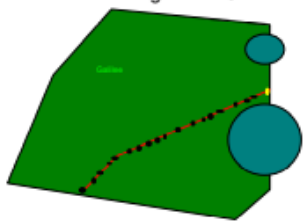

Created before the invention of it, these abstracts are handy even now before we begin using Google Earth.

Jesus' Path to Jerusalem, 19 stories of Galilee

Jesus
(Vol 3 of 4)

A. Unavoidable climax to Jesus' ministry awaited Him in Jerusalem (9:51-56).

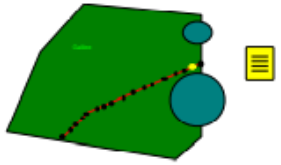

Location -- Setting out to Jerusal--

As time approached for him to be taken up to heaven, Jesus resolutely set out for Jerusalem. Messangers went to a Samaritan village, to get things ready for him. They went to another village.

B. Kingdom service takes top priority (9:57-62).

Location -- Traveling to Jerusalem in Galilee --

As they were walking along the road, a man said to him, "I will follow you wherever you go."

These are abstracts of Galilee.

On the way back to Jerusalem, there were 19 stories in Galilee, 17 in Samaria and 9 in Benjamin on the way up and in to Jerusalem.

The little dots across Galilee represent the stories and the yellow boxes are where we can drill down to the full text.

Reading the story is easy but training your eye to read the Geography and History may take some practice. The key to understanding: seeing the repetitions. First, there are items that do not repeat, they are the locations mentioned in the story. The name of the location will indicate the location folders needed to understand the location. Like a dictionary, understanding could be thought of as connecting lists; in other words, knowing the list an item is in, the other items in that list, and (like branches of a tree), the lists the item is under, produces understanding. In the geography and history repeating items, we have lists (and trees) of locations and lists (and trees) of history time periods. So, once you look for the repetitions, you can easily see the story locations, the geography folders for those locations, and the history folders for the story. Lists give you relationships for understanding with very little text. And lately (2021) I have been adding little notes to each item, their sibling items, that roll up into the notes for the folders above. With these notes, the interconnected lists are very powerful. This relational approach (with little text) produces, I believe, the best history in the world.

- All Orthodox Christian Theology comes from the Apostle's knowledge of Old Testament prophecy.
- So, we are the only "Apostolic Church".
- Luther did not find fault with "The Apostles" Theology, but the false theology added by the Roman Church after they became the first denomination.
- For example: Through James, Jesus's step-brother, the Holy Spirit gave us our church service.
- So, our only theologians are a bunch of unrefined fisherman, carpenters. and tax collectors.

- Except for a little uptick in the Dark Ages, they haven't even slowed down.
- Almost just as many now as the Early Church, and the other (500 year) periods.
- There are millions of miracles within these stories.

What is this?

This is the entry form to a database that organizes business science subjects. This is where you drill down to the detail in those subjects. In other words, the classes you take in business school fit in one and only one of these nine boxes. I discovered this pattern while organizing the information passing between computing programs at a large company, over 100 systems. They each have their own architecture. For the same reason, Each system also fit in only one of these nine boxes. Therefore, This is the General Business Model, true for any business.
